New MIM class starts at ESMT Berlin

Today ESMT Berlin welcomes almost a hundred new students from all over the world to the current Master's in Management (MIM) program. This year's class is the fifth to attend the two-year, practice-oriented curriculum combining internships and a social impact project with applied coursework and research on the latest business and management theories.

The MIM degree is aimed at young people with a bachelor's degree and proven analytical skills and little to no work experience. The program is divided into two tracks with a focus on international management. One track (Quantitative Business) is designed for quantitative decision analysts and one track for creative and strategic thinkers (Innovative Management). Students can also choose one of four specializations in their second year: Business Analytics, Finance and Investments, Entrepreneurship and Innovation, and Global and Digital Strategy.
